

BRRRRRING! BRRRRRING!

The Monster Alarm! Princess Magnolia quickly ran into the broom closet. "No one will find me here." she comforted herself. She changed into darkness, instead of brightness. The pink was gone. Now came the black. She went sliding down the shoot, not paying attention to the spiders.

In the garden, a unicorn named Frimplepants was chomping on some grass. My glitter~stone horse shoe! It's ringing! he thought. He turned around. No one was looking. He went inside a secret passage. Everything came off. Suddenly, a new horse came out.

The Princess in Black lifted over the wall and jumped onto Blacky's back. "Fly! Fly!" the Princess in Black called. Of course, horses couldn't fly, but this was just a way to say "Faster, faster!" But, of course Blacky got the message.

The goat pasture was green and fresh. Duff the Goat Boy was watching his goats. But, suddenly the earth below him started to tremble like an earthquake.

Something came up on the ground. It had lots of "weird" stuff on it. It was very tall. Duff was the exact opposite. The goats gathered around Duff, and the monster started to yell at them. "EAT GOATS! NOW!" Duff looked around.

Suddenly, a black blur went past him. "STOP!" yelled the Princess in Black. "WHY?" said the monster. "ME EAT GOATS!" "No you don't." said the princess in black. The monster reached for a goat. "No!" The Princess in Black got out her scepter, which was now a staff. Princess flurry! Scepter spanking! Twinkle twinkle little SMASH! High-ya kick! Royal talking to! The monster had had enough. "Okay," it said politely to The Princess in Black and Duff's surprize. The monster went back into the hole.

Duff turned to thank her, but she was gone.

